ISSUE AND ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

1. The court erred by ordering Ryan Schechert to pay $3,535 in legal financial obligations absent any inquiry into whether he had the means to do so.
2. The court erred by entering finding of fact 4.1. CP 64.

ISSUE: A court may not order a person to pay legal financial obligations (LFOs) without conducting an individualized inquiry into his/her means to do so. Did the court err by ordering Ryan Schechert to pay $3,535 in LFOs while also finding him indigent and without analyzing whether he had the money to pay?

STATEMENT OF FACTS AND PRIOR PROCEEDINGS

At sentencing, the court did not conduct any inquiry into Ryan Schechert's financial situation. RP 463-474. Mr. Schechert told the court that he is a military veteran and in need of treatment. RP 471.

Shortly after sentencing, the court found Mr. Schechert "wholly without sufficient funds necessary" for an appeal and appointed counsel. CP 83.

Still, the court ordered him to pay $3,535 in legal financial obligations. CP 64. The court also found Ryan Schechert indigent for purposes of appeal. CP 83-84.

Ryan Schechert timely appealed. CP 70-82.

ARGUMENT

THE TRIAL COURT ERRED BY ORDERING RYAN SCHECHERT TO PAY $3,535 IN LEGAL FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS WITHOUT INQUIRING INTO HIS ABILITY TO PAY.

Ryan Schechert was found indigent at the end of trial. CP 83-84. Still, the court ordered him to pay $3,535 in legal financial obligations (LFOs). CP 64.

The court appeared to rely on boilerplate language in the Judgment and Sentence stating, essentially, that every offender has the ability to pay LFOs. CP 64. But the court did not conduct any particularized inquiry into Ryan Schechert's financial situation at sentencing. RP 463-474. The court erred by ordering Ryan Schechert to pay LFOs absent any indication that he had the means to do so.

The legislature has mandated that "[t]he court shall not order a defendant to pay costs unless the defendant is or will be able to pay them." RCW 10.01.160(3); State v. Blazina, 182 Wn.2d 827, 841, 344 P.3d 680 (2015) (emphasis added by court).

This imperative language prohibits a trial court from ordering LFOs absent an individualized inquiry into the person's ability to pay. Id. Boilerplate language in the Judgment and Sentence is inadequate because it does not demonstrate that the court engaged in an individualized analysis. Id.

The court must consider personal factors such as incarceration, the person's other debts (including restitution), and the receipt of means-tested benefits. Id.

Here, the court failed to conduct any meaningful inquiry into Ryan Schechert's ability to pay LFOs. RP 463-474. Indeed, the court also found Ryan Schechert indigent not long after it imposed $3,535 in LFOs. CP 64, 83-84.

Had the court considered the factors mandated by the Supreme Court in Blazina, the court would have considered Ryan Schechert's ongoing indigency against a finding that he had the ability to pay LFOs.

In fact, the Blazina court suggested that an indigent person would likely never be able to pay LFOs. Id. at 839 (“[I]f someone does meet the GR 34 standard for indigency, courts should seriously question that person's ability to pay LFOs”). Ryan Schechert was determined to be indigent at both the beginning and the end of the proceedings in trial court. CP 83-84, Order Appointing Attorney (filed 10/7/13), Supp. CP.

RAP 2.5(a) permits an appellate court to review errors even when they are not raised in the trial court. RAP 2.5(a); Blazina, 182 Wn.2d at 835. The Blazina court recently chose to review the LFO-related issue raised in this case, finding that “National and local cries for reform of broken LFO systems demand that this court exercise its RAP 2.5(a) discretion and reach the merits of this case.” Id.

The Supreme Court noted the significant disparities both nationally and in Washington in the administration of LFOs and the significant barriers they place to reentry of society. Id. at 835-36. This court should follow the Supreme Court's lead and consider the merits of Ryan Schechert's LFO claim even though it was not raised below.

The court erred by ordering Ryan Schechert to pay $3,535 in LFOs absent any showing that he had the means to do so. Blazina, 182 Wn.2d at 841. The order must be vacated and the case remanded for a new sentencing hearing. Id.

CONCLUSION

The court erred by ordering Ryan Schechert to pay $3,535 in legal financial obligations without any inquiry into his means to do so. Ryan Schechert's case must be remanded for resentencing.

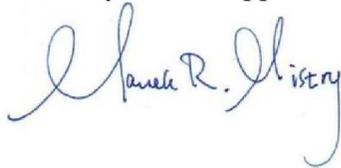

Respectfully submitted on July 14, 2015,
